Half of the strength of the Huerta

Mexico City, Feb. 3.—President Huerta gave no indication up to a late hour tonight of his feelings regarding their lifting of the embargo on the exportation of arms from the United States to Mexico. Few of the Mexican people were cognizant of President Wilson's new move, but all the foreign residents were informed directly through the American charge. Many of them prepared to depart from the capital. "Once more we have proof that the United States is the greatest friend the Mexican people have," said Villa. "This latest act of friendship will do more than anything else to bind the two countries together, and I predict that when the revolution is ended, which will be soon now, Mexico and the United States will be more closely allied than ever before." Carden Calls on Huerta.

President Huerta and Foreign Min-ister Moheno conferred together over the latest development, but what action was decided upon was not made pub-The British minister, Sir Lionel Carden, called on President Huerta to-night and was in conference with him (The text of President Wilson's proc-lamation is printed on page 8.)

O'Shaughnessy Likely to Remain. Charge O'Shaughnessy said that he had not seen President Huerto up to 10 o'clock, nor had he received any indication from Huerta as to the effect President Wilson's latest move would have on him or his policy. The gossip in the corridors favored the belief that Huerta would not hand Mr. O'Shaughnessy his passports. Juarez, Mexico, Feb. 3.—"The Mexican war will not last much longer,"

Mexican Officials Sneer. Mexican Officials Sneer.

Mexicans holding official positions and friends to the administration generally profess not to believe that President Wilson has improved materially the position of the rehels by lifting the embargo on arms and sammunition but the fear that financial assistance might also be accorded them was frankly expressed lonight by Querido Moheno, the minister of foreign affairs.

Although there is no disposition to

Although there is no disposition to confuse President Wilson's act as rec-ognition of the belligerency of the rebels, those at the national palace as-serted tonight that it would have prac-tically the same effect. The fact that the removal of the embargo permits the free exportation of arms from the United States to either faction brings from the officials here a sneer and they point out that the proximity of the repels to the United States and the admitted impoverishment of the fed-eral government leaves no doubt as to which side will be the greater bene-ficiary.

Rebels Will Be Able to Get Money. President Huerta, however, a few days ago said that the lifting of the embargo would not improve the rebels' position greatly, because already in his opinion they were getting into the his opinion they were getting into the country across the international boundary, all the arms and ammunition they were able to pay for, in spite of the apparent efforts of the American war department to prevent the smuggling of war material. He added that money was the thing the rebels needed more than anything else and this they could not get. He appears still to believe that this situation will continue and Segary Moheno has expressed tinue and Senor Moheno has expressed the same opinion, although with less the same opinion, although with less assurance.

Others not so close to the president believe that the rebels will now be able to obtain the money to enable them to make a swift campaign against the capital. They point out that banking houses and capitalists in general will probably regard a loan made to the rebels under the new conditions, as an excellent business proposition, subfect to little risk, Mexicans May Applaud Wilson's Course.

President Huerts talked over the telephone with Senor Moheno regarding the affair this afternoon and later the foreign minister was summoned to the president's office for a conference.

Many months ago it was assumed generally that such action by the United States would result in ruptured relations between the two countries, and it was believed not improbable that it would result in rioting in the capital. The ignorance of the public to what has occurred leaves as yet manswered the question as to the part the people will play, but there is reason to believe there will be no anti-American demonstrations.

Those who predict that the Mexican people will accept the attitude of the United States calmir point to the fact that the sentiment of the people has changed so much in the past few months that they will secretly applaud President Wilson's action, instead of manifesting disapproval by assailing Americans here.

Extra Cars on Trains Out of Mexico City.

President Huerta has delayed making a statement either to the public or to the foreign diplomatic representatives. His attitude as yet is one of doubt, although many are relying on his assurance a few days ago that such action would not alter his attitude toward Americans or Charge O'Shaughnessy, That he will make any direct statement to the American charge is not certain, as Mr. O'Shaughnessy had no part in notifying him of the new move of the president of the United States.

Many Americans are planning to leave tonight for Vera Cruz, the only port by which they can leave the country and reservations on trains have been so great as to necessitate extra cars. Mrs. O'Shaughnessy will remain with her husband at the embassy.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Greater navy advocates were before the house naval affairs committee today armed with statistics to refute yesterday's charge by Representatives Witherspoon of Mississippi and Hensley of Missouri that experts of the navy department in preparing their 1913 year book had underestimated the strength of the American sea fighting line.

Secretary Daniels was on the stand again and was questioned at length by both sides. Later he issued this statement.

"We were criticized for taking the outh Carolina and the Michigan out South Carolina and the Michigan out of the dreadnought class. The question is 'What is a dreadnought?' Doubtiess some naval officers even would contend that these ships should still be considered in the class, but we have to draw the line somewhere, and we have drawn it at the 20-knot speed limit. A vessel that cannot make 20 knots an hour is not now a dreadnought, and these two vessels were taken out of the class on that account. There was no juggling of statistics.' Representative Britten of Illinois, one of the spokesmen, 'battleship men' before the committee, gave out a statement saying:
